Dear fellow Reddaway employee:

In every endeavor, whether in business, sports or other activities, there are a select few individuals who stand out. They are the leaders, the best at what they do, and others to look to them as examples of what it takes to be the best. When it comes to safe driving, you are one of those standouts.

You've worked hard to earn that distinction. Driving safely every day takes practice, determination and focus. With your upcoming trip to the state driving championships, you will have a chance to demonstrate the skill that comes from those years of practice.

Soon you will be putting those skills, experience and professionalism to the test against other top drivers from your state. The competition itself is very exciting. But the professionalism and the personal goal of each competitor to make himself or herself better is really what matters most.

Thank you for representing Reddaway in your state's truck driving competition. The Reddaway-branded hat and shirt is a small but sincere expression of our appreciation for your hard work and time spent preparing for the competition.

You are making tremendous contributions to increasing the value Reddaway brings to the marketplace through your safety performance. Customers know that they can put their trust in us because of the outstanding safety record of you and our other drivers.

These competitions are a special time for us to celebrate our professionalism and prove why Reddaway is the safest and most accomplished company in transportation. Enjoy your state's driving competition and good luck!

Sincerely,

TJ O'Connor
President and CEO
